What is the most important checkbox in object_creation? If my question doesn't make any sense. I will take it back and provide more info. I am a beginner and I am trying to set up a program. The program will save the "data" of a particular user. Each time the user logs in, the data of that user would be saved to a text file. I have a text file with a list of all the user accounts. What I need to do is create a file for that list of accounts. And if that file exists, the user can log in. I put the code below for object_creation. I am not sure what I need to include in this code. #include "c:\users\clare\desktop\ORIGIN\clare.h" #include "c:\users\clare\desktop\ORIGIN\main.h" #include "c:\users\clare\desktop\ORIGIN\README.txt" #include #include #include #include #include #include void login(std::ifstream& inFile, std::string & username, std::string& password) { username = inFile.getline(username); password = inFile.getline(password); if (inFile.eof()) { std::cout <1cb139a0ed
